WHAT IS RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING?

There is no single, nationally agreed definition of responsible gambling. A non-exhaustive list of definitions published over time include:

“Responsible gambling refers to policies and practices designed to prevent and reduce potential harms associated with gambling; these policies and practices often incorporate a diverse range of interventions designed to promote consumer protection, community/consumer awareness and education, and access to efficacious treatment.”

Source: Blaszczyński, A., Ladouceur, R., and Shaffer, H.J. (2004) A Science-Based Framework for Responsible Gambling: The Reno Model. Journal of Gambling Studies, 20 (3), 2004.

“Responsible gambling occurs in a regulated environment where the potential for harm associated with gambling is minimised and people make informed decisions about their participation in gambling. Responsible gambling occurs as a result of the collective actions and shared ownership by individuals, communities, the gambling industry and Government to achieve outcomes that are socially responsible and responsive to community concerns.”

Source: Queensland Responsible Gambling Advisory Committee (RGAC)¹

“Responsible gambling is a broad concept and involves the conduct of gambling in a manner whereby the potential for harm associated with gambling is minimised. It respects the responsibility of individuals for their own actions, but also acknowledges a responsibility on the part of the service providers. Responsible gambling has regard to the context in which gambling occurs, the inducements made to gamble, the way the gambling service operates and the integrity of the gambling operator. The aim is to enable persons to make informed decisions about their participation in gambling and, if harm has occurred, to provide access to gambling help services”.

Source: Northern Territory Responsible Gambling Manual²

The Australasian Gaming Council understands responsible gambling as a shared responsibility of governments, industry, communities and individuals to:

- Promote informed and balanced attitudes and behaviours towards gambling through increased knowledge that supports informed choices;
- Reduce the incidence of gambling related problems through furthering public awareness and assisting the identification of problems at an early stage;
- Reduce gambling related problems and harms through the provision of responsible gambling policies and programs and support to both customers and staff; and
- Empower customers to access self-help options such as local treatment and support services, self-exclusion/barring programs.

Responsible Consumption of Gambling and Positive Play

Research by Hing et al³ has noted a distinction between the responsible provision of gambling and the responsible consumption of gambling.

The former has a focus on the provision of gambling products, environments and policies that promote safe gambling behaviour and the latter encourages consumers to self-regulate and restrain their gambling behaviours.

² www.nt.gov.au

³ Hing, N., Russell, A. and Hronis, A. (2016) Behavioural Indicators of Responsible Gambling Consumption, Victorian Responsible Gambling Foundation.

Hing et al provided a definition of responsible gambling consumption as:

“Exercising control and informed choice to ensure that gambling is kept within affordable limits of money and time, is enjoyable, in balance with other activities and responsibilities and avoids gambling-related harm”.

Source: Hing, N., Russell, A. and Hronis, A. (2016) Behavioural Indicators of Responsible Gambling Consumption, Victorian Responsible Gambling Foundation.

RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING FRAMEWORKS

The Reno Model

The Reno Model was developed in 2004 by behavioural scientists and gambling research professionals from Australia, Canada and the US.

This model sets out principles to guide industry operators, health service and other welfare providers, interested community groups, consumers, governments and their related agencies in the adoption and implementation of responsible gaming and harm minimisation initiatives.⁴

This Reno Model posits that the objective of responsible gambling and harm minimisation initiatives should be prevention (responsible gambling initiatives reducing the “incidence” or number of new problem gambling cases) and treatment (harm minimisation initiatives reducing the “prevalence” or number of people who are currently problem gamblers).

More recently, in an article on the Reno Model, academics have advised that, to achieve a common foundation, all stakeholders should “retain a pivotal definition underpinning all responsible gambling policies and strategies: that is, initiatives that are designed to limit gambling expenditures to personally affordable levels. Achieving this objective invariably will result in the prevention and/or reduction of gambling-related harms in the community”.⁵

National Framework on Problem Gambling 2004-2008: Responsible Gambling Environments

In 2004 the Ministerial Council on Gambling endorsed a framework to be implemented by state and territory governments in an effort to minimise the negative consequences of problem gambling to individuals, their families and the community via a national approach.

Considerations given to the creation of Responsible Gambling Environments under the framework include:

- Any impacts on the community when assessing major expansions of gambling opportunities or the introduction of significant new gambling opportunities;
- Further developing and implementing Code of Practice and/or regulatory frameworks to promote responsible practices by operators, and informed decision making by consumers;
- Encouraging the availability of appropriate venue-based interventions for gamblers; and
- Developing strategies to enable gamblers to limit their expenditure or time spent gambling, for example through pre-commitment measures and appropriate controls over financial transactions.

Ministerial Council on Gambling (MCG) 2009: National Principles for Responsible Gaming Machine Activity

In 2009, the MCG released a set of national principles that they agreed should underpin the regulatory and policy frameworks for the conduct of responsible gaming machine activity in clubs and hotels across Australia.⁶

The principles include:

- Access restrictions for minors (and for adults intoxicated by either alcohol or drugs);
- Information and support provision to help seekers and those that have been identified by staff as potentially experiencing problems with their gambling;
- Opportunities for venue patrons to take breaks in play via shutdown periods and restrictions upon smoking and alcohol consumption;
- Control/restriction of the content, placement and conduct of advertising, promotions and inducements;
- The provision of lighting, timepieces and signage to increase customer awareness of both the passage of time and responsible gambling practices;
- The provision of readily available consumer information resources – including information on the nature of gambling, the odds of winning, recognition of problem gambling behaviours and information regarding where to source appropriate support and treatment for problem gambling.

2018 National Consumer Protection Framework for Online Gambling

In late 2018, the Commonwealth in conjunction with the state and territory governments launched a National Consumer Protection Framework (NCPF) for online gambling operators to adhere to. The framework commenced as of 26th November 2018 and included the following responsible gambling measures:

- A National Self-exclusion register for online wagering;
- A voluntary opt-out pre-commitment scheme for online wagering;
- A prohibition of lines of credit being offered by online wagering providers;
- Minimum standards to ensure the offering of inducements is consistent with responsible gambling;
- Provision of activity statements on demand and on a regular basis;
- More consistent responsible gambling messaging;
- Staff training in the responsible conduct of gambling;
- A reduction to the previously 90-day verification timeframe for customer verification;
- A prohibition on links between online wagering providers and payday lenders; and
- Greater national consistency in advertising of online wagering services.⁷

⁶ Note that some of these measures may be implemented through responsible service of alcohol or other health-related avenues. Ministerial Council on Gambling Communiqué 10 July 2009.

⁷ Minister's Meeting on Illegal Offshore Wagering Reform Communiqué 28 April 2017 <http://www.aml-associates.com.au/docs/IOW20170528.pdf>

Some states and territories have codified the elements of the NCPF requirements into legislation/codes of practice:

State/Territory	Relevant Act/Link
Australian Capital Territory	ACT Gambling and Racing Control (Code of Practice) Regulation 2002
New South Wales	Gambling Legislation Amendment (Online and Other Betting) Act 2019
Northern Territory	NT Code of Practice for Responsible Service of Online Gambling 2019
Queensland	Wagering Regulation 1999
Tasmania	Gaming Control Act 1993
Victoria	Ministerial Direction 26 May 2020
Western Australia	Gaming and Wagering Commission Regulations 1988 (WA)

RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING MEASURES

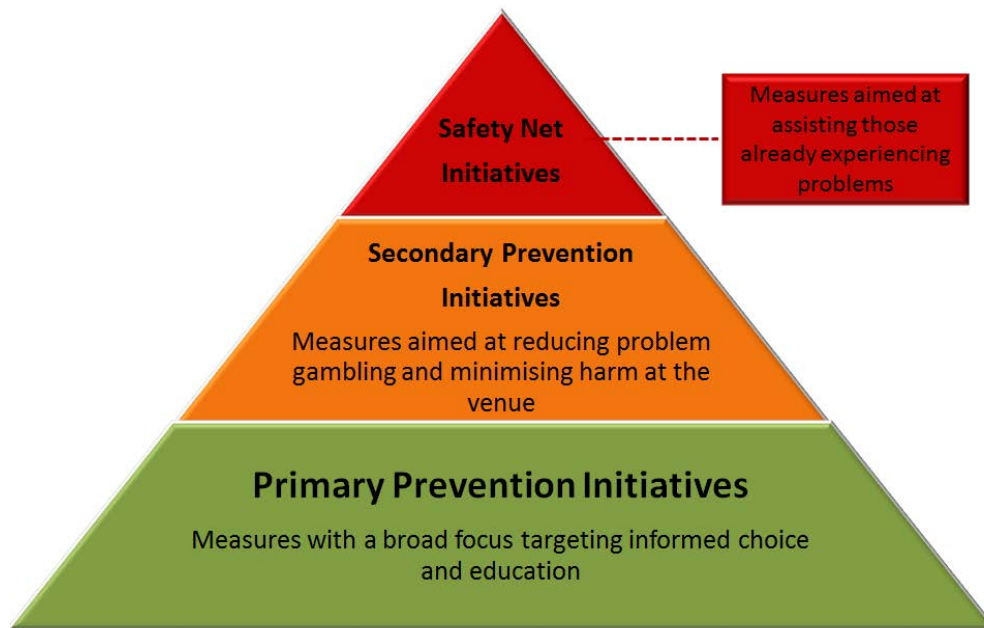

Throughout Australia and New Zealand, the responsible gambling measures in place comprise a mix of voluntary initiatives and legislative/codified requirements that, while having many similarities, can show some variation in their detail from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

A broad summation of major measures in place across most jurisdictions includes:

Education and Information Measures	Information products on price, odds, games
	Warnings and messaging
	Expenditure statements
	Consumer awareness initiatives
Environment, Venue and Product Controls	Advertising and marketing restrictions
	Access restrictions – including age restrictions, restrictions to the hours of operation of gambling venues and restrictions on the numbers of products/machines/tables/venues available
	Smoking restrictions
	Alcohol restrictions
	Requirements for lighting and customer awareness of the passage of time
	Restrictions on product parameters (e.g.: bet, win and spin limits on EGMs)
	Restrictions on loyalty program availability
Financial Controls	Restrictions on access to cash within venues (e.g.: ATM restrictions/withdrawal limits)
	Cheque pay-out requirements
	Prohibitions on credit
Consumer Assistance Measures	Requirements for responsible gambling policies and practices
	Requirements for responsible gambling staff training and management programs
	Requirements to provide support, counselling and assistance information
Consumer Control Measures	Requirement to provide self-exclusion programs
	Requirements for, or the voluntary offer of, pre-commitment mechanisms to limit the expenditure of time/money

The implementation/application of responsible gambling measures throughout Australia and New Zealand can also be conceptualised broadly as comprised of three key areas of focus:

1. Primary Prevention Initiatives – these focus on the broader population and target informed choice, education and information (examples include warnings and public messaging, information brochures about odds, chances of winning, the cost of play and the various game types);
2. Secondary Prevention Initiatives – that focus on gamblers within the venue and may include measures such as ATM withdrawal limits, cheque pay-put requirements for large prizes and pre-commitment options (for either time or financial expenditure); and
3. Safety Net Initiatives – that focus on the smaller proportion of those who gamble and may experience difficulties/problems. Examples of these measures include self-exclusion programs and referral by staff/venues to counselling and support.

An overview of some key responsible gambling measures is provided below. For detailed information please see the AGC website <https://www.austgamingcouncil.org.au/responsible-gambling> for links to specific programs and contact details.

Safety Net Initiatives - Self-Exclusion

Self-exclusion is an important program offered by the gambling industry allowing individuals who have acknowledged that they have a problem with their gambling to enter into an agreement to bar themselves from entering specified gaming venues to reduce the potential for further harm to occur.

Self-exclusion was first introduced formally in Manitoba, Canada in 1989 and has since been adopted in various forms in jurisdictions throughout the United States, South Africa, Canada, Europe, Australia and New Zealand. While initially a voluntary measure put into place by the industry self-exclusion programs in Australia are now required under legislation or mandatory codes of practice in all Australian jurisdictions.⁸

Victoria	Legislated	Legislated
Queensland	Legislated	Legislated

⁸ Self-exclusion from Victorian hotels and clubs operated under a Voluntary Code of Practice until the passage in December 2007 of the Gambling Legislation Amendment (Problem Gambling and Other Measures) Act 2007 This act amends the Gambling Regulation Act 2003 (Vic) to impose obligations on certain industry participants to have an approved Responsible Gambling Code of Conduct and, in the case of gaming venue operators, to have an approved self-exclusion program.

⁹ Tasmanian Gaming Control Act 1993 (No. 94 of 1993).

For more information about the various self-exclusion programs operating throughout Australian state/territories please follow the link here to further information on the AGC website:

<https://austgamingcouncil.org.au/seeking-help/self-exclusion-programs>

Safety Net Initiatives - Exclusion and Third-Party Exclusion

Imposed programs - whereby a third party initiates the exclusion of an individual - have become more common in Australian jurisdictions over time.

For instance, legislation in Queensland mandates venue-initiated exclusions where a licensee believes on reasonable grounds that a person is experiencing problems with their gambling.¹⁰

In South Australia, a venue may issue an exclusion to any individual whose behaviours give cause for concern. In this jurisdiction third parties may also make application for exclusion under the Problem Gambling Family Protection Orders Scheme administered formerly by the Independent Gambling Authority (IGA) and now as part of Consumer and Business Services¹¹

Similarly, Tasmanian legislation allows third parties (persons with a close personal interest in the welfare of the gambler) as well as licensees to exclude from gaming and/or wagering those who they believe may be jeopardising their welfare.

Secondary Prevention Initiatives - Responsible Gambling Support Programs

Throughout Australia gambling providers have put into place comprehensive programs, services and commitments supporting responsible gambling to reduce harm.

Casinos often provide in-venue responsible gaming units and assistance services. Other programs have also been developed to provide support to retail outlets, venues and venue responsible gambling contact officers/staff as they assist customers.

For more information about industry-based responsible gambling support programs in place throughout Australian states/territories please follow the link below to the AGC website:

<https://www.austgamingcouncil.org.au/responsible-gambling/awareness-programs-tools>

Secondary Prevention Initiatives - Responsible Gambling Staff Training

Responsible gambling training for gambling venue staff is a requirement throughout Australia.

Although the exact nature of staff training in responsible gambling can differ between jurisdictions, courses follow a nationally specified competency unit (SITHGAM001 - Provide Responsible Gambling Services – Release 1).

For information on this unit please visit <https://training.gov.au/Training/Details/SITHGAM001>

Courses are designed to assist staff in fostering responsible gambling environments and cover a broad range of topics including information, assistance resources, venue responsibilities under the relevant Responsible Gambling Code and interaction with customers who may require assistance.

Comprehensive staff training and refresher training procedures have been developed over time and courses are taught by a number of registered training organisations (including industry organisations) throughout Australia and may include both entry level and advanced training.
